

Christianity Case Study -- Minority in America

- Some American Christians have been rejected by the majority of American Christians because they have super dumb rituals
  - An example is the Christian Scientist sect, which thinks that everything in the real world is an illusion; therefore, that all injuries are a mental problem rather than a physical one. As a result, they refuse to seek any medical help for ailments, don't vaccinate, etc.
- People are scared of this minority because they are a danger to public health and because they practice medicine without a license
- Christian Scientists view this persecution as an infringement on their First Amendment rights, which, sometimes, it is
- Many Christian Scientists have had high positions of power as well because they are majority white and upper middle class
